I. INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the sixth annual Report on Student Gender-Based Misconduct Prevention and Response at Columbia University.¹ The Report's central aim is to engage the University community – students, faculty, administrators, and staff – in creating a climate where all can study, work, and live free from gender-based misconduct, including sexual harassment and violence.

This report includes information about many topics, including:

- Ongoing efforts by the University community to enhance resources and prevention and training efforts related to gender-based misconduct prevention and response;
- Information regarding the University's Gender-Based Misconduct Policy and Procedures for Students ("Policy" and "Procedures"); and
- Data from the Gender-Based Misconduct process for students during the 2018-19 academic year.

By summarizing key features of the University's work and compiling data from gender-based misconduct prevention and response efforts, including cases involving students during the previous academic year, the Report aims to contribute to the way the University addresses gender-based misconduct, including sexual assault and harassment, for this and future academic years.

II. OVERVIEW OF RESOURCES, TRAINING, AND EDUCATION

This section reviews Columbia's resources and initiatives that address gender-based misconduct prevention and response through support, education and training, and policy enforcement

The following student resources are confidential, meaning that they will not provide information to others without the student's permission: Counseling and Psychological Services (Morningside); Mental Health Services (CUIMC); Medical Services (Morningside); Student Health Service (CUIMC); Disability Services (Morningside, CUIMC); Office of the University Chaplain; and the Ombuds Office. The Ombuds Office is also a confidential resource for faculty and staff.

The University has additional non-confidential resources that are specially trained to provide support and assistance. By "non-confidential," we mean that staff members who work with these resource offices are required to report incidents to Student Conduct and Community Standards, Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action, or the Title IX Office but will also protect individuals' privacy to the greatest extent possible. These resources include: The Department of Public Safety and Student Life and Student Affairs offices across the University.

¹ Throughout this Report, references to "the University" include Columbia University and Teachers College. Barnard College adopted its own policy and procedures for addressing gender-based misconduct accusations against Barnard students; information regarding matters handled under that policy is not included here. The policy and resources described in this report apply to undergraduate, graduate, and professional school students of Columbia University or Teachers College. Some of the resources described here are available to Barnard College students as well.

Our major resources for preventing and responding to gender-based misconduct are:

- Sexual Violence Response
- Student Conduct and Community Standards
- Title IX Coordinator
- Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action

In addition to these, the University has numerous other resources that work with and support students who have experienced or have concerns about gender-based misconduct, including in counseling services, religious life, the Ombuds office and more.

A. Sexual Violence Response

Sexual Violence Response (“SVR”) is a confidential office within Columbia Health that is supervised by La'Shawn Rivera, Executive Director, reporting to Dr. Melanie Bernitz, Associate Vice President of Columbia Health. SVR provides trauma-informed, confidential support focused on sexual violence, intimate partner violence, stalking, and harassment. SVR's mission is to eradicate all forms of gender-based violence. Through collective community action, SVR is committed to social change and creating a culture of accountability. A professionally trained staff of 13, SVR works within the three-point model of Advocacy, Prevention and Outreach, using all three of these approaches to address sexual and intimate partner violence, stalking, and harassment. In addition, SVR operates a 24-7, year-round, helpline accessible to all students seeking assistance.

1. Advocacy

SVR is certified by the New York State Department of Health as a Rape Crisis Center, and has been since 1998. SVR employs Survivor Advocates (SA) who assist survivors and co-survivors of sexual, intimate partner, and gender-based violence by helping them navigate resources within and outside of the University and explore their rights and options while also supporting their individual choices. Survivor Advocates engage resources that provide support to students in both short- and long-term capacities, during and after an abusive or traumatic experience. Survivor Advocates also support students who may be dealing with previous exposure to these types of issues. Advocates connect survivors with support services that they, together with the survivor, identify as being helpful to the survivor's emotional, psychological, physical, familial, residential, and spiritual well-being. SVR operates a 24-7, year-round, Helpline 212-854-HELP (4357) that can be accessed at any time by students looking to speak with an advocate.

2. Prevention

SVR has a team of professionals dedicated to training and prevention. This team implements prevention strategies aimed at eradicating the underlying conditions that foster unhealthy, abusive and violent behaviors. Specifically, SVR's Training and Prevention team works to stop violence before it starts by cultivating healthy attitudes, actions, and norms through education and encouraging a community of accountability.

Part of SVR's prevention model includes cross-collaboration with other Columbia departments and student groups, and programs and workshops tailored to specific communities across campus.

3. Outreach

SVR engages, trains, and supervises students who volunteer as peer advocates and peer educators. Peer Advocates provide survivors and their supporters with confidential emotional support, accompaniment and referrals to on-campus and off-campus resources. They help survivors make informed decisions about their medical, legal, and disciplinary options. In 2018-2019, SVR had 25 certified Peer Advocate volunteers actively supporting the Columbia University community.

Peer Educators lead interactive workshops and provide the campus community with information about sexual, intimate partner, and gender-based violence, healthy sexuality, campus resources, and positive ways to communicate about sex. In 2018-2019, there were 18 students who volunteered with SVR as Peer Educators.

Through the Peer Education and Peer Advocacy volunteer programs, SVR works to create an informed and supportive community environment.

4. Locations

SVR has three locations for students from Columbia University and its affiliate institutions.

SVR's main office, located in Alfred Lerner Hall 700, serves as the primary hub for SVR operations. This location houses the majority of the SVR team.

SVR has two satellite offices, one on the Barnard campus in Hewitt Hall, Room 105, and one on the Columbia University Irving Medical Center Campus in Bard Hall, Room 206.

Students are welcome to walk into any of these three locations to seek services from SVR staff, explore designing an educational program, ask for co-sponsorship for an event, or seek information about volunteering and other ways to get involved.

5. Training, Prevention, and Education Efforts

From July 1, 2018 to June 30, 2019, SVR reached 16,511 students, faculty, staff and community members at Columbia University through 229 training, prevention, education and outreach activities. The following table provides more detailed information about participation in each type of these activities.

In an effort to promote healthy and informed conversations, increase knowledge of resources, remember those who have died to sexual and relationship violence, celebrate those who have survived, and connect people who are working to end gender-based violence; SVR launched the Hope Heal Inspire campaign. This campaign was the foundation for October's Relationship Violence Awareness Month (RVAM) 2018, and April's Sexual Assault Awareness Month (SAAM) 2019 at Columbia University. The SVR team organized and hosted a total of 14 in-person educational programs for RVAM and SAAM that consisted of panels, lectures and workshops. Beverly Gooden (Survivor, Activist and Creator of #WhyIStayed), Constance Clery (lobbied for Clery Act and Founder of the Clery Center), Monica Rivera (Director, Women and Gender Advocacy Center, Colorado University), and Jackson Katz (Educator, Activist, Author, and Co-Founder of Mentors in Violence Prevention) are just a few of the lecturers and special guests SVR hosted during these two critical awareness months.

In October 2018 during RVAM, with co-sponsorship support from Athletics, Undergraduate Student Life, Office of University Life, Columbia Dining, and the Office of the Vice President for Diversity and Community Affairs at Teachers College, SVR spearheaded the lighting of Alfred Lerner Hall in the symbolic color purple to remember, honor and celebrate survivors and those who have been affected by relationship violence. The building stays lit up in purple throughout the month of October.

As part of SAAM 2019, SVR organized a rally for Denim Day, an international prevention education campaign to protest the misconceptions surrounding sexual assault. This year 101 Columbia University students and employees attended the rally to hear undergraduates, graduate students and staff share their lived experiences around why they wear denim. Denim Day was held on Wednesday, April 24, 2019. There were 292 (58% students, 39% employees and 3% non-affiliates) people who signed the Denim Day pledge this year. Additionally, the most popular Denim Day post on SVR's Facebook page reached 763 people.

Sexual Violence Response was awarded a total of $150,000 in New York State grants to support the team's efforts in advocacy, prevention and outreach. The SVR team was able to maintain grant funded services and programs from the 2017-2018 academic year. Below are a few grant activity highlights from the 2018-2019 academic year:

- Peace and Presence, a series that introduces and educates survivors on healing modalities that go beyond talk therapy;
- Survivor care package program;
- 1 full-time staff position to support prevention education and direct services;
- Training and education to further advance the skills of professionals and volunteers working to support those affected, and change the conditions and culture to prevent sexual, intimate partner and gender-based violence, and stalking.

In partnership with the New York State Unified Court System, SVR is a Remote Temporary Order of Protection (TOP) site in New York City. Survivor Advocates can now facilitate online Temporary Orders of Protection to assist survivors facing intimate partner, domestic or family violence. Survivors can call (212) 854-HELP (4357) to learn more about this service and option. This service was officially launched in October 2018.

B. Student Conduct and Community Standards

Student Conduct and Community Standards ("SCCS") was directly supervised during the 2018-19 academic year by Jeri Henry, Associate Vice President for Student Conduct and Community Standards, reporting to Suzanne Goldberg, Executive Vice President in the Office of University Life.

SCCS is located in Watson Hall on West 115th Street and provides the following services:

- Serves as a centralized resource to support and provide assistance to all University students who have experienced or have been accused of gender-based misconduct;
- Assists students who seek to bring complaints against University employees; and
- Conducts investigations, facilitates conflict resolution, and administers the disciplinary process related to gender-based misconduct complaints against students from all schools within Columbia University as well as Teachers College.

1. Case Managers

Case Managers serve as the primary resource within Student Conduct and Community Standards to support students who file a complaint or respond to an accusation of a Policy violation. Student Conduct and Community Standards provides Case Managers to Complainants and Respondents to ensure that students understand their rights within the Policy and, if necessary, the investigation and adjudication process. Case Managers share this information during the intake session and, as needed, in subsequent meetings and communications with the Case Manager.

Case Managers may also help facilitate a variety of support for students:

- Academic support, including notifying academic advisors regarding missed classes, dropping classes, withdrawal, exam extensions, etc.
- Referrals to supportive and confidential resources on campus, such as counseling and Sexual Violence Response
- Exploration of housing options, including emergency housing
- Referrals to Attorney-Advisors
- Identification of other supportive services on and off campus to meet students' needs
- Navigation of the Gender-Based Misconduct process from filing a complaint to resolution, e.g., restorative justice, mediation, investigation, adjudication, and appeal

Case Managers abide by FERPA, the federal law restricting disclosure of certain student information, and are not a confidential resource. Importantly, Case Managers protect student privacy to the greatest extent possible and only share essential information with other resources and partner offices as needed to assist the student appropriately. Case Managers also engage the campus community through trainings for students, faculty, and staff to promote community standards, including the University's standard of sexual respect.

2. Title IX Investigators

Student Conduct and Community Standards has four full-time investigators whose primary responsibility is to investigate complaints made against Columbia students under the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy, make credibility assessments, and recommend findings of responsibility to hearing panelists in a written Investigative Report. Investigators work in two-person teams ("the Investigative Team"). All investigators are experienced attorneys, and receive specialized training related directly to their responsibilities and other relevant competencies. Student Conduct and Community Standards is responsible for designating the Investigative Team to conduct each inquiry and, when appropriate, will conduct an investigation and recommend by a preponderance of the evidence standard whether a violation of Policy occurred.

In cases that do not involve a formal investigative process, the investigators also work in conjunction with Case Managers to facilitate resolutions as set out in the Policy, such as mediation and restorative justice. Additionally, the Investigative Team provides ongoing training to students, faculty, and staff throughout the academic year to ensure that the student body is educated on the contents of the Policy and the expectations the University has of students.

3. Continued Training

In addition to training on Title IX investigation and adjudication, all staff involved in administering the Gender-

Based Misconduct process receive ongoing training on a variety of related topics, including conflict resolution methods (e.g., mediation and restorative justice), LGBTQ+ awareness, substance use on campus, resources available for victims and survivors in New York City, the role of law enforcement and the Department of Public Safety, domestic violence, diversity, and effective communication.

4. Adjudication by Hearing Panel

Gender-based misconduct cases are adjudicated by a hearing panel, as specified by the Policy. The hearing panel is comprised of three specially-trained administrators, generally from within Student Conduct and Community Standards (excluding the investigative team and Case Managers) and/or Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action. The Complainant and Respondent are always informed of the panel's membership before the hearing process begins and may request a panelist substitution if a conflict exists. In addition to their continued professional training, all panelists receive relevant training on the dynamics of sexual assault at least once annually. The hearing panel determines outcomes based on a preponderance of the evidence standard, which is applied to consideration of the investigative report, supplementary materials, and presentations by the parties during a hearing.

C. Title IX Coordinator at Columbia University

Columbia University's Title IX Coordinator, Associate Vice President Marjory Fisher, works to ensure a safe, welcoming and harassment-free environment for all members of the Columbia community. AVP Fisher is responsible for ensuring that University policies and procedures are in compliance with Title IX, the federal law that prohibits sex discrimination in federally-funded educational institutions. In addition, AVP Fisher audits and provides guidance on Title IX investigations involving both students and staff at the University, oversees Deputy Title IX Coordinators, and is responsible for training University staff and other community members on Title IX issues. AVP Fisher is involved in the training of all University staff who interact with students and are mandated reporters, and assists in annual training of investigators, adjudicators and appellate officers who play a role in cases involving gender-based misconduct. AVP Fisher also arranges the unique, individually-based accommodations for pregnant students that Title IX requires they are granted, by professors and department administrators.

Under New York State's law governing sexual assault on campus, student leaders and athletes must be trained regarding the concept of affirmative consent and other important issues of which students must be aware on campus. Since 2016, AVP Fisher has conducted 63 training sessions that discussed sexual assault, dating and domestic violence, stalking, and gender-based or sexual harassment. Ms. Fisher has conducted numerous trainings for staff and faculty on the duty to report such cases, and most recently, sexual harassment in an academic setting and in the workplace. Ms. Fisher has also participated in town hall meetings with students and staff on issues involving reporting sexual harassment, and the concerns that students, faculty, and staff have with the risk of retaliation.

AVP Fisher oversees the prompt and fair investigation and resolution of all complaints related to sexual assault, gender-based harassment, and intimate partner violence and stalking, and ensures that Columbia complies with Title IX and state laws prohibiting gender-based discrimination. She also participates in the investigation of complaints as needed.

D. Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action

Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action (“EOAA”) is responsible for administering the University’s Employee Policies and Procedures on Discrimination, Harassment, Sexual Assault, Domestic Violence, Dating Violence and Stalking. EOAA also monitors compliance with policies and laws that ensure equal opportunity for students, employees and the University community. The office is designated as the University’s Compliance Office for Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act and other equal opportunity, nondiscrimination and affirmative action laws. During the 2018-19 academic year, Associate Provost Heather Parlier directly supervised EOAA, reporting to University Provost John Coatsworth.

Compliance Training

EOAA is also responsible for ensuring that students, faculty and staff receive training in accordance with applicable federal, state, and local laws governing discrimination, harassment and gender-based misconduct. This is accomplished through:

- Online-based training for faculty and staff;
- In-person group trainings with students, faculty and staff;
- Individual one-on-one training with faculty and staff; and
- Orientations for new students.

E. Training and Education for Faculty, Staff, Researchers, Teaching Assistants, and Research Assistants

1. Faculty and Staff Briefing and Training²

Student Conduct and Community Standards, Sexual Violence Response, and Equal Employment Opportunity and Affirmative Action conduct extensive staff and faculty trainings throughout the University.

During the 2018-19 academic year, Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action and Student Conduct and Community Standards conducted 179 policy training sessions for faculty and staff regarding the Employee Policies and Procedures on Discrimination, Harassment, Sexual Assault, Domestic Violence, Dating Violence and Stalking.

As noted above, Sexual Violence Response also conducted training sessions for students, faculty and staff, designed to increase awareness of on-campus resources for survivors, the dynamics of violence, and ways to screen for sexual, intimate partner and gender-based violence.

2. Columbia Faculty and Researcher Briefing: Student Resources, Policies; and Title IX

Columbia has developed a briefing for all University faculty and research officers that covers requirements and best practices on topics including academic integrity, student mental health, teaching challenges, discrimination and harassment, gender-based misconduct and reporting obligations. In 2017-2018, all full and part-time faculty and researchers, totaling over 13,000, were required to complete the Briefing, and all faculty and researchers new to Columbia during the 2018-19 academic year were required to complete the briefing.

In addition, Columbia developed an online guide that all Teaching Assistants and Research Assistants were required to complete during the 2018-19 academic year. The guide: Columbia TA Guide: Essential Roles, Responsibilities and Guidance covers how to navigate situations that may arise in and outside of the classroom in TA and RA interactions with students and faculty, and University resources that exist to support all students. Discrimination, harassment and gender-based misconduct are also covered. All teaching assistants and research assistants are required to complete this training on annual basis prior to the commencement of their duties.

Additionally, in 2018-19, all Columbia staff, including all new staff members received an online Anti-Harassment, Discrimination and Title IX Training that provides detailed training on how to identify and avoid legal and University policy violations relating to sexual harassment and discriminatory practices. The course covers bystander intervention, Title IX, the Campus SaVE act, definitions of harassment, discrimination, consent and anti-retaliation. This is a newly created training for all University employees that covers a number of scenarios that allow the learner to put into practice concepts learned throughout the training. This course also provides comprehensive coaching on how to speak with victims of harassment, emphasizing the need to clarify issues of confidentiality and describing how to provide access to resources available on campus and off.

F. Additional Initiatives, Updates, and Ongoing Efforts

1. Sexual Respect and Community Citizenship Initiative

During the fall semester, all new Columbia students are required to participate in the University's Sexual Respect and Community Citizenship Initiative, which focuses on the link between sexual respect and membership in the University community. All continuing students are strongly encouraged to participate as well. This initiative was created by Columbia students, faculty and staff in 2014-15 to promote a campus climate that reinforces sexual respect and rejects sexual harassment, sexual assault, and other forms of gender-based misconduct.

Students can choose among many participation options offered: professionally-facilitated workshops; film screenings and discussions; online video collections and tutorials; and resources for healing and resilience, which are designed for students who have experienced trauma, supported someone through trauma, or are interested in trauma and healing. Students also have the option of developing an independent project to satisfy their participation requirement.

Additionally, in an effort to foster student engagement and participation in the Sexual Respect Initiative, the role of the Sexual Respect Ambassador was created by the Office of University Life during the 2018-19 academic year, at the suggestion of the Gender-Based Misconduct Prevention and Response Task Force, (For more on the Task Force, see below.) The Sexual Respect Ambassador program invited students from across the University to take leadership roles with the Sexual Respect Initiative by staffing workshops, leading efforts to increase student engagement with the Initiative, and providing feedback to help guide the Initiative's programming options. During the 2017-18 academic year, 45 Columbia students participated as a Sexual Respect Ambassador.

In the 2018-19 academic year, more than 11,800 students completed the Sexual Respect and Community Citizenship Initiative. Of those who responded to a post-Initiative survey, 88% expressed satisfaction - including more than 40% who indicated they were “extremely satisfied” - with the program. Comparing data from previous years, respondents participating in the Initiative demonstrated an increased knowledge in identifying problematic behavior and societal attitudes or norms that support violence while also becoming aware of Columbia-specific resources designed to help students.

For more information about the Sexual Respect and Community Citizenship Initiative and related work at Columbia, please visit: <http://sexualrespect.columbia.edu>.

2. Pre-Arrival Tutorials

All incoming Columbia students receive two tutorials prior to their arrival on campus: Welcome to Columbia and Sexual Assault Prevention for Undergraduates (undergraduate students) or Sexual Assault Prevention for Graduate Students (graduate students). Welcome to Columbia covers important resources available to support students throughout their time at Columbia, including resources for gender-based misconduct prevention and response. The tutorial also covers key policies and concepts including community citizenship, inclusion and belonging, sexual respect, and health and wellness.

Sexual Assault Prevention focuses in depth on sexual respect and shares essential information about Columbia’s gender-based misconduct policies.

These tutorials were developed by the Office of University Life with significant input from students, faculty, and staff across the University.

3. Community Engagement through the Office of University Life

At the end of the 2017-18 academic year, the Gender-Based Misconduct Prevention Task Force transformed itself from task force into two parts: the Sexual Respect Ambassador program and a parallel faculty-staff expert working group. Both of these groups work with others around the University to support ongoing efforts to prevent of sexual assault and other gender-based misconduct on campus.

In April 2019, University Life convened a Columbia-wide meeting for students, faculty and staff from across the University on gender-based misconduct prevention and response. The meeting featured presentations from the lead researchers of the Sexual Health Initiative to Foster Transformation (SHIFT); Columbia’s Vice President for Campus Services, and leaders from Columbia Health, and included extended opportunities for discussion and idea generation.

III. GENDER-BASED MISCONDUCT POLICY UPDATES

The Gender-Based Misconduct Policy and Procedures for Students is updated at the beginning of each academic year to reflect the many recommendations and comments that come from students throughout the University, including students who received support from the Gender-Based Misconduct Office's Case Management Team, students who were parties or witnesses in the disciplinary process, and other students on campus. Attorney-advisors and others who participated in the process during the past year also provided valuable input. For 2018-19, the Policy was posted on the Sexual Respect website on August 24, 2018. This updating process is in keeping with the University's commitment to ongoing policy review.

IV. REPORTED VIOLATIONS OF THE GENDER-BASED MISCONDUCT POLICY FOR STUDENTS: JULY 1, 2018–JUNE 30, 2019

This is the sixth annual release of aggregate data resulting from reported violations of the University's Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students. The primary reasons for providing this data are:

- To improve understanding of sexual assault and other gender-based misconduct at the University;
- To increase awareness of these reported incidents and their handling by the University; and
- To encourage discussion that helps to prevent gender-based misconduct and support the creation of a campus environment that promotes sexual respect.

Consistent with the previous years' release of data, this report also responds to the community's expressed interest in the release of aggregate data. In addition, the disclosure of this data complies with New York State legislation and, in support of the University's goals described above, provides information beyond the annual publication of crime reports required by the Clery Act. At the same time, this Report provides only anonymous data to ensure that no information is disclosed that might indicate the identity of any students who brought or who were the subject of complaints. It is essential that students can report gender-based misconduct without concern that the University will share identifying information or comment on their individual reports.

The disclosure of aggregate data and the discussion it generates is one among many initiatives at the University to prevent gender-based misconduct and to respond to its occurrence effectively and fairly. In addition to reading this report, we urge you to visit Columbia's Sexual Respect website, <https://sexualrespect.columbia.edu>, to familiarize yourself with available resources and learn more about the University's efforts to prevent and respond to gender-based misconduct.

A. Understanding the Data

The data in this Report include alleged violations reported to Student Conduct and Community Standards in which a University student was the respondent. Additionally, this Report also includes alleged violations from student complainants in which the respondent was not affiliated with the University. Although these cases did not engage the disciplinary process, the student complainants received support from the Student Conduct and Community Standards. The data discussed here includes reports filed between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019, and reviewed under the University's Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students issued in late August 2018.³ The data also includes cases resolved between July 1, 2018 and the publication of this Report⁴

During the period covered by this Report, additional students who experienced gender-based misconduct chose to discuss their experiences with peer counselors at the Sexual Violence Response and Rape Crisis/Anti-Violence Support Center, with University clergy, Health Services staff, University counselors, University Ombuds officers, or other "confidential" resources, but decided not to file a complaint under the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students. Some students also chose to speak with friends, family, medical professionals, faith leaders and/or law enforcement outside of the University. These communications, some of which are confidential, are not included in the data reported here.

There are many reasons students may choose not to pursue disciplinary action within the University. For some, the trauma leaves them feeling unready to engage in an investigation and disciplinary process that requires further conversation with investigators and, possibly, a hearing panel. Others believe they will heal from their experience more quickly if they devote their energy to a mediated or restorative conference, counseling, or pursuing a complaint in the criminal justice process. Still other students are concerned about the degree to which engaging in a formal disciplinary process will distract their attention from their studies or other campus activities. While students may choose among these alternatives, the University remains committed to providing a supportive, sensitive, and fair process to all parties, so no student feels dissuaded from reporting violations within the University system. Accordingly, students can report gender-based misconduct they have experienced at any time during their matriculation, i.e. regardless of any time lapse between the alleged incident and the decision to report. As a result, the data here may include incidents alleged to have occurred prior to the 2018-19 academic year.

Readers familiar with the Campus Crime Statistics Act (Clery Act) may note that the data presented in this Report differs from that released pursuant to the Clery Act, which requires the University to record and report incidents of certain crimes on or near campus. The reporting requirements of the Clery Act are different from those of the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy in several ways, including: the time frame for data collection; the geographic scope (Clery covers incidents on or near campus while Columbia's Policy is not geographically restricted); the affiliation of the parties involved (Clery does not limit reporting to incidents involving alleged Policy violations committed by Columbia students); and other circumstances of the incident. Consequently, the numbers reported in Columbia's Clery report for sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking may differ from the numbers in this Report, which covers complaints under Columbia's Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students. For additional information regarding Columbia University's Clery report, please visit: <https://publicsafety.columbia.edu/>.

³ Reports filed prior to the release of late August 2018 Policy were reviewed under the University's Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students issued in the 2017-2018 academic year.

⁴ These cases include those reported between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019, as well as cases that were listed as "ongoing" in last year's Report.

1. Data Related to Sexual Assault

As summarized below and described in the tables in this Report, some reported instances of gender-based misconduct did not require a final determination through the University adjudication process and others proceeded through a full investigation and adjudication. Through Case Management and the Investigative Team, Student Conduct and Community Standards engaged with all complainants, regardless of the status or outcome of the investigation and adjudication process, to identify appropriate resources on and off campus.

- In 29% of sexual assault reports⁵ identified in the aggregate data for the 2018-2019 academic year (three cases of non-consensual intercourse, two cases of non-consensual contact, and 21 cases where the type was not specified), no further investigation could be conducted because either the complainant or third-party reporter did not know the identity of the respondent or the respondent was a non-affiliate. Support was provided to the complainant by a Case Manager in these instances;
- In 48% of sexual assault reports identified in the aggregate data for the 2018-2019 academic year (four cases of non-consensual intercourse, and 40 cases where the type was not specified) the complainant declined to identify a respondent, declined to provide sufficient detail to support an investigation, and/or requested that no investigation or disciplinary process be undertaken. In these cases, the Title IX Coordinator, working with the Student Conduct and Community Standards, evaluated the facts presented, weighed the complainant's request against the University's commitment to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment, and determined that no further action was required (See data table on the resolution of sexual assault reports that involved known and affiliated respondents.);
- In sexual assault cases involving non-consensual contact or penetration reported and resolved during the 2018-2019 academic year, where a formal investigation was completed, one respondent did not contest the recommended finding of responsible or was found responsible; and
- Four cases that were reported during the 2018-2019 academic year were not yet resolved at the time of this report; updates on the outcomes of those matters will be included in the next release of aggregate data.

2. Data Related to Other Forms of Gender-Based Misconduct

Types of gender-based misconduct other than sexual assault include domestic violence, dating violence, sexual exploitation, stalking, sexual harassment, and gender-based harassment. The tables in this report consolidate the 170 reports of misconduct; other than sexual assault; made during the period July 1, 2018, to June 30, 2019, in a manner similar to the sexual assault cases described above (see Table 4 for data on the resolution of these reports), with two important exceptions and one clarification noted below:

- First, for these cases, the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy permits options other than investigation and adjudication for resolving the reported violation – these options are not permitted for an allegation of Sexual Assault: Penetration. If the parties agree to an alternate resolution option in a case not involving Sexual Assault: Penetration, there may be no formal investigation, determination of responsibility, or disciplinary action. Instead, the resolution of these cases can take the form of a directive prohibiting contact between the parties (“no-contact directive”), an access restriction, another accommodation to support and protect a student, and/or education for a party relevant to the alleged misconduct (all referred to as “alternate resolutions”). Additionally, a case may be resolved by the parties participating in mediation or a restorative justice process, and in consultation with the Student Conduct and Community Standards, agreeing to a resolution and outcome that will close the case. If the parties engage in mediation or restorative justice, either party may opt out of the alternate process at any time and proceed with an investigative process.

- The second point of differentiation are the five reports of gender-based misconduct where the complainants’ allegations were accepted as true and accurate, but Student Conduct and Community Standards determined that the behavior described was not a violation of the Policy. These cases were referred to a partner office for follow up. The parties and Student Conduct and Community Standards reached alternate resolutions for 42 reports of gender-based misconduct identified in this report. Additionally, one report of gender-based misconduct was resolved through mediation. These resolutions were facilitated by Student Conduct and Community Standards. In each case, the Title IX Coordinator deemed an alternate resolution or mediation to be consistent with preserving a safe and non-discriminatory University environment. No sexual assault allegations were resolved in this manner.
- Allegations of retaliation may be reviewed through the gender-based investigation process or through Dean’s Discipline. One allegation of retaliation was reviewed but not ultimately substantiated. Corollary matters of retaliation reviewed through the Dean’s Discipline process are not addressed in this report.

Please see the following tables for additional information.

B. Tables of Reported Violations of Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students: July 1, 2018 – June 30, 2019

1. Reports of Sexual Assault and Other Gender-Based Misconduct filed between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019 by Complainant Affiliation
2. Reports of Sexual Assault and Other Gender-Based Misconduct filed between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019 by Respondent Affiliation⁶
3. Resolution of Reports filed between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019 of Sexual Assault with Known, Affiliated Respondents
4. Resolution of Reports filed between July 1, 2018 and June 30, 2019 of Other Gender-Based Misconduct with Known, Affiliated Respondents

Note on Cases where the Sexual Assault type was Not Specified by the Reporter: A number of cases reported in the following tables involved a situation where the Gender-Based Misconduct Office received a report that a sexual assault occurred but the reporter declined or was unable to provide further specific information.

Note on Cases with Multiple Charges: Some reported cases involve more than one allegation of gender-based misconduct. In those cases, a “hierarchy of charges” was applied and the tabulations reflect the most serious charge. For example: a case that includes allegations of Sexual Assault: Penetration and Sexual Assault: Contact would be counted as one case of Sexual Assault: Penetration.

Note on Affiliate/Student Currently Unenrolled: This category in the tables that follow includes students who recently graduated or are currently on leave from the University (the disciplinary process may be suspended while a student is on leave and away from campus; if the student re-enrolls, the disciplinary process continues).

⁶ Although Barnard College has its own policy and procedure for investigation and adjudication of allegations involving Barnard student respondents, Case Management facilitates support for Barnard College student complainants between Columbia University and Barnard College resources. As such, Barnard College complainants are included within the total number of Morningside Undergraduate Complainants. Barnard College respondents are only included with the total number of Morningside Undergraduate Respondents when a complaint is made against a Barnard College student by a Columbia University student. In these cases, Case Management supports the Columbia student as they engage with Barnard College’s policy and procedures.

C. Sanctions Applied to Responsible Parties

The University releases aggregate data in this report¹³ in a way that aims to avoid the identification of specific students or individual cases. The reason for this is that Student Conduct and Community Standards is a University resource committed to protecting students' privacy to the greatest extent possible. Linking sanctions to hearing outcomes or cases where students accepted responsibility raises the risk that others may be able to determine who was involved in a particular case and what the outcome was because the number of such cases is relatively small. Therefore, case-by-case sanction information is not provided.

However, this Report does provide aggregate data on sanctions as described below. These sanctions include eight cases reported during the 2017-2018 academic year that were still ongoing at the time last year's report was published but resolved during the 2018-2019 academic year, as well as those reported and resolved during the 2018-2019 academic year. In the cases when there was a finding of responsibility for a Policy violation, the respondents lost their good disciplinary standing at the University (i.e. Disciplinary Probation, Disciplinary Suspension, or Expulsion); some students lost other privileges (e.g., revocation of alumni privileges or ability to enroll at Columbia in the future); sanctions also included education and/or training related to the gender-based misconduct for which the respondent was found responsible. In order to return to campus following a suspension, students must meet the individual requirements prescribed by the sanctioning officer, which may include reflective assignments, education-based training, writing, and meetings.

Sanctions for Sexual Assault: The determination to suspend or expel a student found responsible for any type of sexual assault takes into account numerous factors, including (1) the specific gender-based misconduct at issue; (2) the circumstances accompanying the lack of consent; (3) the respondent's state of mind at the time of the gender-based misconduct; (4) the impact of the offense on the complainant; (5) the respondent's prior disciplinary history; and (6) the safety of the University community. Sexual Assault: Penetration includes any form of vaginal, anal, or oral penetration, however slight, by a penis, object, tongue, or finger without a person's affirmative consent. Of the cases within this category resolved after July 1, 2018 and prior to the date of this publication, there were three findings of responsibility in this category, one that resulted in Disciplinary Suspension and the other two in Expulsion.

Sexual Assault: Contact includes any sexual contact, including sexual touching for the purpose of sexual gratification of either party, without a person's affirmative consent. Sexual touching includes contact under or over clothing with the breasts, buttocks, genitals, groin or inner thigh, or touching another with any of these body parts; making another person touch any of these body parts under or over clothing; or the emission of ejaculate on the clothing or body of another person without that person's consent. Of the cases within this category resolved after July 1, 2018 and prior to the date of this publication, there were two findings of responsibility. Once case resulted in Disciplinary Probation and the other in Disciplinary Suspension.

Sanctions for Other Gender-Based Misconduct: For the broad range of Policy violations identified as gender-based misconduct other than sexual assault, sanctions issued during this reporting period included: policy education, disciplinary suspension, registration hold, access restriction, *persona non grata*¹⁴ status, loss of alumni privileges, and ineligibility for future enrollment in any University program.

D. Disposition of Appeals

Either party can file an appeal challenging the underlying hearing panel determination and/or the sanction. For cases resolved after July 1, 2018 and prior to the date of this publication, appeals were filed in five cases: two appeals were filed by a complainant and three appeals were filed by a respondent. All five appeals upheld the original sanction.

E. Table of Time Frames for Resolution of Reported Violations

Student Conduct and Community Standards recognizes the importance for all parties of resolving cases in a timely manner while also ensuring that the Policy and Procedures are followed carefully and carried out with fairness to both parties. Numerous factors impacted the time frame for resolving reports of Gender-Based Misconduct. These factors may include:

- A party initially opted for an alternative resolution, mediation, or restorative justice in lieu of investigation but then changed this decision;
- A party was on leave and unable to participate in the investigation;
- Difficulty contacting parties or witnesses;
- Cases that involved a large number of witnesses required for interview; or
- Difficulty securing a party's advisor's presence for investigative interviews and other meetings.

Taking these factors into account, most reports of Sexual Assault: Penetration or Sexual Assault: Contact that met the definition of a violation under the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students; were fully investigated; and then resolved within seven months,¹⁵ not including the appeal, which can take up to an additional 22 days.¹⁶ Please note that time frame data do not include cases with ongoing proceedings, which will be included in next year's Report. Most reports of other gender-based misconduct where a respondent was a known affiliate and the allegation(s) met the definition of a violation other than Sexual Assault were resolved within two months.

¹⁴ The status of Persona Non Grata indicates that an individual is no longer permitted on any part of Columbia University's property.

¹⁵ One case of Sexual Assault: Contact was resolved within one year because a party involved was on leave from the University and unable to participate in a timely manner.

¹⁶ This time frame does not include matters that are returned to the Hearing Panel or Investigative Team for reconsideration through the appeal process, which can exceed 22 days.

The table below includes data for resolution of reports of gender-based misconduct that were fully investigated and resolved prior to the date of this publication.

V. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ABOUT THE SCOPE OF THE DATA

The data in the preceding tables is based on reports of gender-based misconduct to Student Conduct and Community Standards in which the respondent was a Columbia University, Barnard, or Teachers College student. For resolution information involving cases where the respondent was a Barnard student or a Columbia, Barnard, or Teachers College employee, or other person doing business with Columbia, Barnard, or Teachers College, the investigation and disciplinary processes can be found/read at:

- <https://eoaa.columbia.edu>
- <https://barnard.edu/doc/titleix>
- <https://www.tc.columbia.edu/policylibrary/diversity-and-community-affairs/gender-based-misconduct-policy-for-students/>

As noted earlier, the designated time period of July 1, 2018-June 30, 2019 for this Report refers to the period when reports of gender-based misconduct were filed, rather than to the time of the alleged incident. Some of the reports filed during the July 1, 2018-June 30, 2019 period were for incidents that occurred prior to July 1, 2018. The University does not limit the time for submitting a report of gender-based misconduct. The data tables include reports of gender-based misconduct filed prior to July 1, 2018 that were concluded during the July 1, 2018-June 30, 2019 period.

Also as discussed above, reports of gender-based misconduct often contain allegations of more than one category of gender-based misconduct within a single report (e.g., Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault: Intercourse). For reporting purposes, complaints involving more than one allegation are listed only once, and the data tables reflect the more severe allegation under University policy.

VI. DEFINITIONS OF VIOLATIONS; RESOLUTIONS, AND OTHER WORDS AND PHRASES

A. Definitions of Gender-Based Misconduct Violations¹⁸

Sexual Assault: Penetration: Any form of vaginal, anal, or oral penetration, however slight, by a penis, object, tongue, or finger without a person's affirmative consent.

Sexual Assault: Contact: Any sexual contact, including sexual touching for the purpose of sexual gratification of either party, without a person's affirmative consent. Sexual touching includes contact under or over clothing with the breasts, buttocks, genitals, groin or inner thigh, or touching another with any of these body parts; making another person touch any of these body parts under or over clothing; or the emission of ejaculate on the clothing or body of another person without that person's consent.

Domestic Violence: The use or threat of physical violence or sexual assault that is directed toward (1) a current or former spouse or intimate partner; (2) a person 6 This definition encompasses a range of sexual conduct that could also fit within the Policy definition of Sexual Harassment. The Gender-Based Misconduct Office, in consultation with the appropriate Title IX Coordinator(s), will with whom one shares a child; or (3) anyone who is protected from the Respondent's acts under the domestic or family violence laws of New York. This violation includes behavior that seeks to establish power and control over another person by causing fear of physical or sexual violence. Domestic violence can be a single act or a pattern of behavior, depending on the frequency, nature, and severity of the conduct

Dating Violence: The use or threat of physical violence or sexual assault that is directed toward a person who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or sexually intimate nature with the Respondent. This violation includes behavior that seeks to establish power and control over another person by causing fear of physical violence or sexual assault. Dating violence can be a single act or a pattern of behavior, depending on the frequency, nature, and severity of the conduct Sexual Exploitation: Non-consensual abuse or exploitation of another person's sexuality for the purpose of sexual gratification, financial gain, personal benefit or advantage, or any other illicit purpose. Acts of sexual exploitation include, but are not limited to:

- Non-consensual streaming, sharing, or distribution of images, photography, video, or audio recording of sexual conduct, nudity, or state of undress when and where there is a reasonable expectation of privacy, without the knowledge and affirmative consent of all participants;
- Observing, photographing, videotaping, or making any other visual or audio recording of sexual conduct or nudity or state of undress when and where there is a reasonable expectation of privacy, without the knowledge and affirmative consent of all participants;

¹⁸ The definitions of violations are from the August 2018 Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students, which was in place during the period of the present report.

- Exposing one's genitals in non-consensual circumstances; or
- Inducing incapacitation for the purpose of making another person vulnerable to gender-based misconduct.

Stalking: A course of unwanted attention that is repeated or obsessive, directed toward an individual or a group and that is reasonably likely to cause alarm, fear or substantial emotional distress. Stalking may take many forms, including but not limited to lying in wait for, monitoring, or pursuing contact. Stalking may occur in person or through telephone calls, text messages, unwanted gifts, letters, e-mails, surveillance, or other types of observation and communication. For more information regarding "hostile environment," see the next page.

Sexual Harassment: Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual contact, and other verbal, physical, or visual conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment when:

- Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's academic, co-curricular, or student life activities;
- Submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for academic evaluation, grades, advancement or student life decisions affecting that individual (i.e. "quid pro quo"). Quid pro quo sexual harassment can occur whether a person resists and suffers the threatened harm, or a person submits and avoids the threatened harm, and can occur even if the person delays in reporting the harm;
- Such conduct is intentional, serves no legitimate purpose, and involves contact with parts of another individual's body that may cause that person to feel degraded or abused;
- When the behavior is for the purpose of gratifying the actor's sexual desire; or

Such conduct has the effect of unreasonably interfering with another student's education or participation in educational programs or activities or such conduct creates an intimidating, hostile, demeaning, or offensive academic, campus, work or living environment.

Gender-Based Harassment: Gender-based harassment can occur if a person is harassed either for exhibiting what is perceived as a stereotypical characteristic of their gender or for failing to conform to stereotypical notions of masculinity or femininity, and that harassing conduct unreasonably interferes with a person's education or participation in educational programs or activities, or creates an intimidating, hostile, demeaning, or offensive academic, campus, or living environment. The following describes some conduct that may be gender-based harassment:

- Acts of aggression, intimidation, stalking, or hostility based on gender or gender stereotyping; or Threats or non-consensual disclosure of a person's gender identity or that a person is transgender or non-binary (i.e. "outing").

“Hostile Environment” in the Context of Sexual and Gender-Based Harassment: A hostile environment may arise when unwelcome conduct of a sexual or gender-based nature unreasonably interferes with a student's ability to participate in or benefit from an education program or activity, or creates an intimidating, threatening, demeaning, or offensive academic, campus, work or living environment. In evaluating whether there is evidence of a hostile environment, the University will consider the totality of the known circumstances from the point of view of a reasonable person, including but not limited to:

- The frequency, nature and severity of the conduct;
- Whether the conduct was physically threatening;
- The effect of the conduct on the Complainant’s mental or emotional state;
- Whether the conduct was directed at more than one person;
- Whether the conduct arose in the context of other discriminatory conduct; and
- Whether the conduct unreasonably interfered with the Complainant’s educational or work performance and/or University programs or activities.

A single, isolated incident of sexual or gender-based harassment may, based on the facts and circumstances, create a hostile environment. The more severe or pervasive the conduct, the less need there is to show a repetitive series of incidents to demonstrate a hostile environment.

Retaliation: Any adverse action or threatened action, taken or made, personally or through a third-party, against someone who has reported a gender-based misconduct complaint (a Complainant) or has been the subject of a gender-based misconduct complaint (a Respondent) or any other individual (a Witness, Third-Party Reporter or Advisor, etc.) because the individual engages with Student Conduct and Community Standards and/or the disciplinary process.

- All individuals and groups of individuals, not just a Respondent or Complainant, are prohibited from engaging in retaliation. Retaliation can refer to actions or threatened actions by any individual, including students and others who are not engaged with Student Conduct and Community Standards.
- Retaliation includes threatening, intimidating, harassing, or any other conduct that would discourage a reasonable person from seeking services; receiving protective measures and accommodations; reporting gender-based misconduct; or participating in the disciplinary process as a Complainant, Respondent, Witness, Third-Party Reporter or Advisor.
- Retaliation includes maliciously or purposefully interfering with, threatening, or damaging the academic or professional career of another individual, before, during or after the resolution of a report of gender-based misconduct under this Policy.

Reports of gender-based misconduct made in good faith, even if the allegations are ultimately determined to be inaccurate, are not considered retaliation.

Reports that are intentionally false or found to have been made frivolously or in bad faith may constitute retaliation and/or may be considered by the Sanctioning Officer if an individual is otherwise found responsible for a violation of the Policy. Retaliation may also include violations of a no-contact directive and/or other interim measures, in conjunction with any of the behavior described above, during the course of an investigation.

- If the alleged retaliation occurs between the Complainant and the Respondent while a matter is pending, these allegations may be investigated separately through the Dean's Discipline process and/or folded into the pending investigation, based on the circumstances of the allegations.

Allegations of retaliation by other parties, i.e., not between the Complainant and the Respondent, will be investigated separately by Student Conduct and Community Standards when the allegations involve gender-based misconduct. Any other allegations of retaliation will be investigated and adjudicated through the Dean's Discipline process.

Below are some examples of conduct that could constitute gender-based misconduct under these definitions:

- Coercion for a date or a romantic or intimate relationship;
- Unwelcome touching, kissing, hugging, or massaging;
- Use of unwanted force in connection with sexual activity or attempted sexual activity;
- Sexual contact with a person who has not clearly consented;
- Unwelcome remarks about a person's genitals or breasts;
- Belittling remarks about a person's gender or sexual orientation based on gender stereotypes;
- Videotaping or photographing of activity of a sexual or private nature without the consent of the person(s) being videotaped or photographed;
- Graffiti concerning the sexual activity of another person;
- Use of e-mail, the Internet, or other forms of digital media to facilitate any of the conduct listed above; and
- Publishing a social media post threatening to harm an individual who speaks with Student Conduct and Community Standards.

B. Resolutions

This section provides additional information about the types of resolutions beginning on page 20.

Complainant declined to identify a respondent and/or declined to provide significant detail to support an investigation; no further investigation was conducted – complainant offered support by the Student Conduct and Community Standards Case Manager: In these cases Student Conduct and Community Standards evaluated the facts presented, weighed the complainant's request with the University's commitment to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment, and determined that no further action was required. Case Management continued to assist the complainant in identifying appropriate campus and other resources.

Complainant did not know the identity of a respondent and/or the respondent was a non-affiliate; no further investigation was conducted – complainant offered support by the Student Conduct and Community Standards Case Manager: In these cases Student Conduct and Community Standards evaluated the facts presented, weighed the complainant's request with the University's commitment to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment, and determined that no further action was required. Case Management continued to assist the complainant in identifying appropriate resources, on and off campus.

A complaint was submitted by a third party but the identified complainant reported that no sexual assault occurred and/or did not corroborate this complaint; no further investigation was conducted – complainant offered support by the Student Conduct and Community Standards Case Manager: A third-party report was submitted to Student Conduct and Community Standards by someone who was not the complainant. This may have been a faculty member, residential-life staff member, advising dean, student, or any other person. In these cases Student Conduct and Community Standards evaluated the facts presented, weighed the complainant's request with the University's commitment to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment, and determined that no further action was required. Case Management continued to assist the complainant in identifying appropriate resources, on and off campus.

Behavior described by reporting individual did not meet the definition of a violation of the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students: This category describes reports where, although the complainant's report as true and accurate, Student Conduct and Community Standards determined that the behavior described was not gender-based misconduct under the Policy. The complainant was notified of this determination, including that no further action would be taken and that the matter would be closed. These matters were referred to a partner office for review or adjudication, as appropriate; and other follow-up including support for the student(s) involved, if needed.

Alternate Resolution: This category describes reports where Student Conduct and Community Standards may have limited information to pursue an investigation and/or the complainant is unidentified or does not wish to engage an investigation. After an evaluation of the facts presented and available information, Student Conduct and Community Standards may determine that corrective action is warranted to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment. Corrective action that may be implemented includes, but is not limited to: a no-contact directive, an access restriction, an accommodation to support and protect a student, and/or education for a respondent relevant to the alleged misconduct. Case Management continued to assist the complainant and the respondent in identifying appropriate resources, on and off campus.

Mediation: For a case to be resolved in this manner, the complainant, respondent, and Student Conduct and Community Standards must agree that mediation is appropriate for resolving the allegations. If a mediated agreement was reached by the involved parties and approved by Student Conduct and Community Standards, the matter would be closed. In these cases, Case Management continued to assist the complaint and respondent in identifying appropriate resources, on and off campus. Examples of resolutions are: a no-contact directive, letter of apology, an accommodation to support or protect a student, education of a respondent relevant to the alleged misconduct, restriction from extra-curricular activities, and change in housing assignment. Complainants and respondents may opt out of participating at any time and engage the investigative process. As noted earlier, reported allegations of Sexual Assault: Penetration cannot be resolved through alternate resolution or mediation.

Restorative Justice: For a case to be resolved in this manner, parties should be comfortable being in the same room with each other and participating in a conversation guided by a specifically trained University administrator. The purpose of restorative justice is for all affected parties to identify the harms that were caused by a student's actions and to collaboratively determine the best method for repairing those harms.

The Restorative Justice conference only proceeds if all parties willingly agree to participate. The process typically commences within 10 business days after Student Conduct and Community Standards receives written agreements from all involved parties. The conference will continue until Student Conduct and Community Standards determines that the conference will not be successful or until the conference is successfully concluded. If successful, an agreeable resolution is reached by all involved parties, at which point, the disciplinary process is concluded, and the matter is resolved. If a resolution cannot be reached, the matter will be referred to the AVP who will reassess the matter and determine another appropriate resolution method.

Student Conduct and Community Standards will monitor the parties' adherence to their proposed solution and reserves the right to close the matter when compliance is satisfactory.

Respondent accepted responsibility for the violation of the Policy or indicated no contest of the recommendations of the Investigative Team: Under the terms of the August 2018 Policy, after a review of the Investigative Report, the respondent is given the opportunity to respond to the alleged violation(s) of Policy in the following ways: (1) no response; (2) not responsible; (3) responsible; or (4) no contest. If the respondent accepts responsibility or indicates no contest of the findings, the Sanctioning Officer of the respondent's school is notified and determines the appropriate sanction based on the evidence provided in the Investigative Report. The complainant and respondent are informed of the sanctioning decision and the respondent and complainant then have the opportunity to appeal the sanctioning. The acceptance of responsibility or indication of no contest, however, is not appealable.

C. Other Words and Phrases

Accommodations/Interim Measures: The accommodations discussed in this Report are measures that are put into place or facilitated by Student Conduct and Community Standards to support and protect a student after a report of an incident of gender-based misconduct. Students may request an accommodation outside of the investigative and disciplinary process. (The term “interim measures,” sometimes used interchangeably with “accommodations,” refers to measures effectuated during the course of an investigation or disciplinary proceeding.) Under appropriate circumstances, accommodations may include, but are not limited to: moving a student’s residence; adjusting a student’s work schedule for University employment; changing a student’s academic schedule; allowing a student to withdraw from or retake a class without penalty; providing access to tutoring or other academic support; and issuing a “no-contact” directive. Student Conduct and Community Standards will evaluate any request for accommodations in light of the circumstances and information available at the time of the request. The University will reveal information about the accommodations only to those who need to know in order to make them effective. Failure to comply with the parameters of any accommodation by a party is a violation of University policy and may lead to additional disciplinary action. The policy also has procedures in place so that students may challenge or adjust the terms of any accommodations, as appropriate.

Appeals: An appeal is a request, by either the respondent or the complainant, to a panel of deans including the dean of the respondent’s school to review and change the responsibility determination of the hearing panel and/or the sanction(s) applied. The three grounds for appeal are: 1) A procedural error (An appeal based on procedural error must identify with specificity each alleged error within the investigative and/or hearing process and the ways in which the specified error(s) substantially affected the decision of the Hearing Panel and/or Sanctioning Officer to the detriment of the appealing party); 2) New information (An appeal based on new information must explain why this information was not available or not provided to the Investigative Team in a timely manner, and how this information would have substantially altered the decision by the Hearing Panel. If a party declined to participate or withdrew from the process, the panel will not consider information that the party could have provided if they had fully participated in the process. This includes situations where a student declines to participate on the advice of their advisor); and 3) Excessiveness or insufficiency of the sanction(s) (An appeal based on the imposed sanction must explain why the sanction is inappropriate based on the weight of the information provided during the investigation, hearing and/or sanction). Disagreement with the finding or sanction(s) is not, by itself, a ground for appeals. If the three-dean panel concludes that a change in the hearing panel’s determination is warranted, the panel may enter a revised determination, reconvene the panel to reconsider the determination, or return the matter for additional investigation. The panel may also change the sanction.

Complainant: The person making the allegation(s) of gender-based misconduct.

Hearing panel: The hearing panel determines whether the respondent is responsible or not responsible for a violation of the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students. If the respondent declines responsibility or chooses not to respond after receiving the investigative report, a hearing panel is convened.

Investigation: An investigation is the fact-finding process that commences following the receipt of a report of gender-based misconduct by Student Conduct and Community Standards.

Preponderance of the evidence/Findings of responsibility: The Investigative Team and Hearing Panel uses “preponderance of the evidence” as the standard of proof to determine whether a Policy violation has occurred. Preponderance of the evidence means that a panel must determine, based on the information provided, that a Policy violation was more likely than not to have occurred in order to find a student responsible for violating the Policy. The Hearing Panel will find a student responsible or not responsible based on a majority vote. The Hearing Panel’s decision includes an explanation of the basis of the decision.

Respondent: The person alleged to have committed gender-based misconduct.

Sanctions: Sanctions are disciplinary actions taken when a student is found responsible or accepts responsibility for violating the Gender-Based Misconduct Policy for Students. A student found responsible for violating the Policy may be subject to sanctions including, but not limited to, reprimand/warning, disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. A student may also be restricted from certain University facilities or activities, or required to participate in educational programming.

Student Currently Unenrolled: A currently unenrolled student is a matriculated student at the University who is on leave (e.g., personal, medical, academic, disciplinary leave) from the University.

Undisclosed student: An undisclosed student is a student whose identity is known by the complainant or a third-party reporter, but is not disclosed to Student Conduct and Community Standards.

Unknown student: An unknown student is a student whose identity is not known to the complainant or a third-party reporter.
